As part of the conference, a dedicated stand will present selected issues of Tutoring Gedanensis, an academic journal published at the University of Gdańsk and rooted in the practice of academic tutoring. The display will offer participants an opportunity to explore the journal's development over the past decade, its thematic diversity, and the variety of texts created through tutor-student dialogue, including essays, reflective pieces and academically oriented student work.

The stand will complement the conference poster devoted to the journal by providing direct access to published issues and by inviting participants to reflect on the role of tutoring-informed writing in higher education.
